How do we build a better workforce?

ThoughtWorks Inc. is a multi national IT consultancy that provides application development and systems integration services to Global 1000 companies. They make organizations more efficient through Agile practices and principals.

ThoughtWorks hires very selectively to maintain the quality of their workforce and often these candidates are not accessible through traditional recruitment channels. This was the core of the problem that was presented to Seventh.

Seventh created an ecosystem of talent aggregating websites starting with a dedicated HR website – ThoughtWorker.com. We also designed AgileAssessments.com, a website for developers who were interested in testing their Agile skills. Finally, we also redesigned the ThoughtWorks Studios website and networked all these websites, through cross-linkages, reporting, data collection etc. As a result, quality recruitment increased by 30%.
